Hancock, Harrison meetings set to discuss new federal flood insurance regulations

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Federal Emergency Management Agency and local officials will conduct several public meetings next week to discuss recently completed preliminary Flood Insurance Studies.

The studies include Flood Insurance Rate Maps which will be the basis for establishing new National Flood Insurance Program requirements and construction ordinances along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

These new requirements include raising or lowering the present 13.1-foot (above sea level) Flood Plain foundation requirement for new home construction, depending on several factors; and establishing velocity zones for areas subject to hurricane wave action which will in most cases raise the minimum foundation height and impose some construction restrictions.

John S. Yeend, an ocean engineer of Gee and Jensen Consulting Engineers, Inc. of West Palm Beach, Fla., Friday afternoon reported the meetings are scheduled in Pass Christian, Bay St.

Louis, Waveland, Long Beach, Gulfport and Biloxi.

Meetings are scheduled at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 17 at Pass Christian City Hall for that town; 10 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 18 at the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis for that county; 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18 at Bay St. Louis City Hall for the city; and 9 a.m. Friday, Nov. 19 at Waveland City Hall for that city.

Don Hansford, Natural and Technological Hazards Branch community planner of FEMA's Atlanta, Ga. office, Friday afternoon said the purpose of the meetings is to present study data to the communities.

"Anyone is invited to attend the meetings in which the contractors (Gee and Jensen) will explain what was done in the studies," he stated.

Yeend, Hansford and two other Gee and Jensen technical experts will conduct the meetings, Yeend reported.

Hansford said after all the meetings, a legal advertisement will be published in area newspapers seeking any technical or scientific objections to study findings during a 90-day period.

After that period, appropriate municipal and county governments will be given six months to amend existing regulations to conform with the FEMA study data, he reported.

Hansford said if the local governments fail to adopt the new requirements, residents will not be able to receive flood insurance. Construction financing will become difficult to obtain and federal disaster aid would be withheld.

But the FEMA official added that valid objections to the studies may be submitted anytime after the documents are accepted by the federal agency and local governments.

He noted the primary change resulting from the new studies, the result of more than 18 months of work, will be establishment of the velocity zones—areas subject to wave action in a 100-year storm (hurricane).

Yeend explained velocity zones in Hancock and West Harrison are generally located along the Mississippi Sound shoreline, the north shore of the Bay of St. Louis and along the East

Pearl River north to US-90.

He said in those zones, newly constructed building floors generally will have to be built higher than the present 13.1 foot requirement and must be placed on pilings.

Piling fill for raising foundations will not be allowed in velocity zones, Yeend emphasized, because hurricane wave wash would undermine these structures.

But he noted in A zones, relatively low flood-prone areas where wave action does not occur in a hurricane, foundation fill will be allowed.

In some A zones the present required elevation will be lower, Yeend cited.

He explained the construction elevations were determined in part with computer models of the Mississippi Gulf Coast in which some 3,000 hypothetical hurricanes electronically struck the area.

He said the computer hurricanes varied in intensity and landfall direction.

To verify the hypothetical effects of the computer storms, data from intense hurricanes like Camille in 1969 (the nation's worst storm) and Betsy in 1965 was fed into the machines, Yeend explained.

In all instances, the computer-generated storm data was verified with the results from actual storm surges, the ocean engineer revealed.

Hansford said the Mississippi studies do not include inland flood information along small streams due to limited funding.

He reported present restrictions in upland areas not included in the studies will be maintained.

Yeend said FEMA is coordinating the Mississippi studies with flood studies now underway by other firms in Louisiana and Alabama to insure data is consistent along the entire U.S. Gulf Coast.

Presently, Louisiana requires a minimum foundation elevation of about 11 feet above sea level.

The ocean engineer added the studies for Jackson County communities should be completed soon and meetings in that area will be scheduled.

Research ship open to public Veterans Day

Open house aboard United States Naval Ship LYNCH will offer the general public a rare opportunity to visit an oceanographic research ship and see sights seldom viewed by "landlubbers."

The Veterans Day event will be held at West Municipal Pier, Gulfport Harbor, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday.

The LYNCH, operated by the Military Sealift Command under the technical direction of the Naval Oceanographic Office, carries a civilian crew of 29 and 15 scientific personnel.

Oceanographic investigations may be conducted from this ship—world-wide.

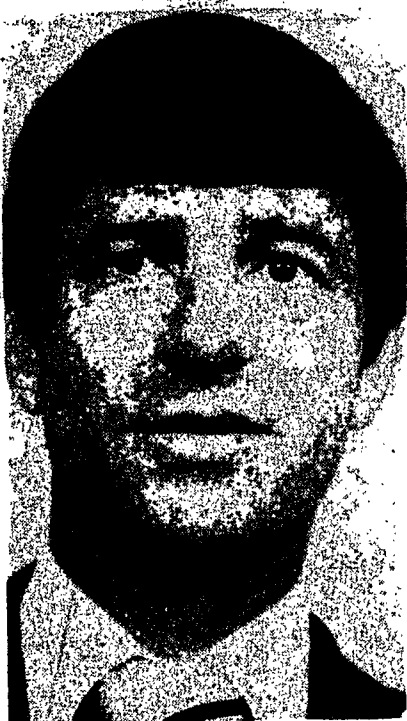

Laboratory personnel, using available deck machinery, are capable of handling a wide range of physical, chemical, biological, and geological sampling programs.

Built in 1964, the LYNCH is 209 feet long, 39 feet wide, displaces 1,339 tons, and can cruise 12,000 nautical miles at 12 knots.

Such strange things as Niskin water sample bottles, reversing thermometers, corers, and bottom-grab samplers can be seen.

Electronic instruments on display include sound velocity-salinity-temperature-depth probes, precision echo sounders, bathythermograph systems, and seismic, sub-bottom acoustic profilers.

To begin in Spring, end in Fall

Multi-million-dollar project to repave Hancock I-10

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

An I-10 resurfacing project in Hancock County estimated to cost between $2.3 and $2.8 million is scheduled to begin in the Spring.

Billy W. Key, Mississippi Highway Department office engineer in Jackson, Thursday confirmed the project should begin in March, but could start earlier in the year if Winter weather is dryer than expected.

The four-lane asphalt-paved interstate highway built here in the late 1960's traverses central Hancock east-west directions.

Key said the project will repave all I-10 lanes in an 11.74-mile stretch from the Jourdan River twin-bridges near Diamondhead to the Hwy. 607 interchange near the National Space Technology Laboratories.

He noted the highway department is now seeking bids for the resurfacing project which could cost $2.3 to $2.8 million depending on the quotations received.

The department is planning a completion date of Oct. 19, 1983 on the project.

Bids for the Hancock project must be submitted by Nov. 23.

The highway project is financed 90 percent by the federal government with Mississippi paying for the remaining portion, he reported.

The I-10 project is part of an ongoing statewide program in which some 40 miles of deteriorating interstate highways will be resurfaced during a two-year period, Key explained.

The Hancock work is apparently one of the larger resurfacing endeavors in the state because Key said most restoration work underway is upgrading five to nine-mile stretches.

Some 682 miles of interstate highway exist in Mississippi, Key revealed.

He said the state projects are also in conjunction with a nationwide interstate improvement program.

"The interstate highways were expected to last 20 years, but either due to poor soil conditions, an undetected bad paving job or overloaded trucks, these highways in some places are deteriorating," Key stated.

He said most of Mississippi's interstate highways were constructed 15-16 years ago.

When asked what is wrong with the I-10 pavement in Hancock, Key replied, "It's probably just worn out. It's probably cracking and pieces are falling out."

He reported a legal advertisement seeking bids for the Hancock work includes milling the surface pavement.

Key explained this work would probably include mechanically lifting the top one-inch layer of pavement, recycling that material with some new asphalt and resurfacing the roadway with the mix.

He said the recycling process is offered as an optional bid item because the existing asphalt surface may not be in reusable condition.

A legal notice seeking bids for the work will be in the Thursday issue of The Sea Coast Echo.

NEW SIGNALS INSTALLED—Waveland Mayor John Longo, right, pushes the button to activate new traffic signals Friday at the intersection of US-90 and Waveland Avenue. Inspecting the new signals are Bob Joiner, left, Southern District Highway Commissioner, and Don McMillan, traffic technician. Joiner said a recent survey of the intersection showed a tremendous growth in traffic count. The survey was requested by the City of Waveland; J.P. Compert, state representative; and officials of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Otis sentencing deferred, Bermond named clerk

By BRENT MACEY

Sentencing of former Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis was postponed Friday, apparently due to a mix-up with a pre-sentence report prepared by the state.

District Attorney Albert Necaise said he expects another date for sentencing will be set this week.

Otis officially resigned from office effective Nov. 5, after having pled guilty to a misdemeanor offense during the October term of Circuit Court.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisor's Friday set Dec. 7, as the date for a special election to fill the Circuit Clerk position.

To fill the temporary office vacancy, the board appointed Eunie Bermond, a clerk in the office, to the position of Circuit Clerk until the special election.

Bermond told the board during a Friday supervisors' meeting that she was concerned with how and when fine monies paid to the Circuit Clerk's office should be delivered to the Chancery Clerk's office.

She stated she preferred to present the money on a daily basis and the supervisors suggested she meet with Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise to work out details.

District Attorney Albert Necaise claimed Friday that Otis' sentencing was postponed because Judge James Hester of Laurel has not reviewed the pre-sentence report on Otis.

Although the pre-sentence report has been completed, Necaise said the judge expected the report to be mailed to his office in Laurel County.

The report remained in Gulfport, however, apparently because members of Necaise's staff thought the judge would review it when he came to the Coast to set the sentence, Necaise said.

Otis is expected to be fined for a misdemeanor offense of failing to keep proper records at the Circuit Clerk's Office.

The misdemeanor offense was the result of a plea bargain. Otis was originally indicted for embezzling some $49,000 from the Circuit Clerk's office.

The maximum penalty for the misdemeanor offense is $1,000 fine, and or one year in the county jail.

Otis, whose resignation from office became effective Friday, will also be required to pay back all monies which an audit by the district attorney's office revealed are due the office from 1979 until 1981.

Necaise would not disclose the OTIS—Page 3A

Library Friends receive McKenna program with unbounded enthusiasm

By JOE PILET
Coordinator

Friends of the Library
"We have a great deal of musical talent here in Hancock County," Olive McKenna told a record crowd of persons in Thursday night's audience when they met to hear "An Hour of Music."

Then she presented proof of her statement.

First on the program at the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis was well-known pianist Colby Fabian whose practiced and nimble fingers enchanted the audience with selections from Chopin. He received deserved and repeated applause and encores from The Friends of the Library.

The "Fore and After Quartet" looks very professional in their wide brimmed hats, bright red vests and — don't forget to notice the sleeve garters!

This foursome captivated listeners with well-remembered, well-loved, and well-rendered numbers. They were a smash hit partly because they seemed to enjoy each other as much as they were being enjoyed.

"You ought to be in pictures," one patron remarked to Bunk Gardner. And the "tallest man in the group," Eddie Hodges, (who stands 5'3") we're just guessing, gains height by raising his fedora above the heads of others in the quartet.

He delighted young and old with a voice that is matchless. Brother Pierre simply oozed rhythm adding spirit and unit in his own charming and unique manner.

Like a well-set metronome went the shoulders of Doug Taylor — who ranked and received four-star approval. This enthusiast was really "with it" causing head nodding, humming and foot patting.

Ever popular Lana Noonan accompanied the group on a few numbers, winning approval when she donned a straw hat signifying her identity with the group.

Noonan did solos that warmed the hearts of all soprano lovers.

In addition to her talent her personal charm was showing. Bringing tears to the eyes and softening the hearts of listeners was the rich smooth, soothing baritone voice of Dennis Arnold. He was returned by popular demand for two additional encores.

Giving due credit to his lovely accompanist, Olive McKenna, Arnold presented the Queen and Conductor of the Show.

The performance ended with a standing ovation from the large group in attendance — there were standees in the aisles.

Prior to the musical extravaganza was presentation of well-earned awards during which Leo Seal in his own friendly manner handed Certificates of Appreciation to docents and those giving programs.

The recipients included Judge J. Ruble Griffin, docent sponsoring Fred Wagner; Edgar Perez, docent sponsoring Bob Hubbard; and Joe Marochino, docent sponsoring Olive McKenna.

Gail Thomas, chairman of the plant and flower committee, was also given a certificate of appreciation.

The 1982 Thanks Award went to Broussard's Music in Gulfport for generous support in contributing for the occasion the use of a lovely piano.

The award was received through proxy by Mr. and Mrs. Paul White since unavoidable circumstances prevented Broussard's attendance.

The social hour which followed the program was officially hosted by Mrs. R. P. Fernandez, assisted by subdebs, the Noonan Sisters who were dressed in original and dainty tea gowns.

John Ehle, whose display of curios and antique artifacts was featured on the "Browse Your Library," assisted with information where needed.

Featured in the main foyer were two oil paintings of Mrs. George Heitzmann.

A recent visit to a resident's home in Waveland near the Bay St. Louis Oxidation Pond revealed the invasion by thousands of bugs still continue after sunset.

It is terrible when a person is unable to walk in his own yard in the evening because of the pesty bugs. This has been going on for several years and it seems someone would have done something about the situation by now.

We realize the residents of Waveland are plagued by the insects which apparently generate from the Bay St. Louis Oxidation Pond.

The recent cool weather has been a blessing as it puts the bugs out of circulation, but as soon as it warms they will again be in action.

We know the insects were not there before the oxidation pond was constructed because we fished many an evening in the 'Old Sand Pit' and never encountered them.

We hope one of these days some officials will try and solve the plight of the residents being effected by the invasion of the bugs.

It was good to see the turnout of so many local law enforcement officers as well as merchants who attended the Mississippi Gulf Coast Advertising Club's Anti-Shopping Campaign kickoff Thursday in Gulfport.

On the local scene there will be a workshop for business owners and managers on 'How to Prevent Business Losses Due to Shoplifting, Bad Checks, and Employee Theft,' to be held at the Library in Bay St. Louis on Monday, Nov. 15 from 8-10 a.m.

We hope there will be a large attendance by local merchants and employees for this event. The workshop is co-sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, the Mississippi Small Business Development Center, and the United States Small Business Administration.

Shoplifting is something that takes money out of the pockets of all persons.

It is good that more merchants are now taking court actions against those caught shoplifting, and many Judges are getting serious in sentencing.

The workshop is a little over a week away and we hope to see many of you there.

Preparations are now underway for a large celebration on Veteran's Day in Hancock County.

This year, Vietnam veterans will receive special recognition, and as you know many of our young people saw action in the conflict.

The parade is sponsored by the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 of Bay St. Louis and will have participation from Waveland's Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77 as well as other Legionnaires, Veterans of Foreign Wars, area schools, Boy Scout and Girl Scout Troops.

Our local bands will participate, with students from the various schools.

All Legionnaires are urged to wear Legion hats and uniforms if available.

The parade will start from Bay Junior High and end at Bay City Hall.

Just about everyday on our trip to the Bay St. Louis Post Office we hear comments about the condition of Main Street.

The most often comment is just how long will it remain the way it is without very much being done as has been the case for about four weeks.

We hope the work will resume and the job be completed within a reasonable frame of time.

We realize that whenever construction of this type is undertaken some inconveniences will occur, so we hope it will not be too long.

The Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church will hold their annual Harvest Dinner at Virginia Hall, 912 S. Beach, Bay St. Louis, next Thursday from 5-7:30 p.m.

This is a treat for persons interested in enjoying good food, as it is cooked by the church women using treasured recipes which have been handed down from their families.

We know the ladies have been very busy preparing for the dinner and we hope many persons will attend.

A $5 donation is asked for a dinner with proceeds going towards the Churchwomen's ecumenical work in the community.

Take-outs will be available and tickets are available from the Churchwomen or at Ellen Kane's Gifts, Bay St. Louis.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

Preparing my ads every week gets to be more and more of a chore. I know it brings in business and I can't afford not to. But it's still a pain.

Dear BISAP: As they say, different strokes...

And every merchant, sooner or later, finds that he enjoys, and is bothered by, certain aspects of his overall management role.

An ideal solution would be to to gradually, under your supervision, allow someone else assume responsibility for the least pleasant duties. This would improve your outlook and allow you to spend more time on the things you enjoy and thus, hopefully, would do best.

But, be certain you are "giving up" the right things. There's a good possibility you are just overworked and the ad preparation is not a cause, but a symptom.

For it's hard to imagine a manager who doesn't have a strong interest in the regular promotion of the business.

If the problem is the intricacies of ad layout, you can simplify these with the help of your newspaper salesperson. If you can come up with one, or just a few, basic layout styles — it will make your job much easier. Then you can simply count the number of featured items, along with other items, and have them filled into one of the basic designs.

Tell the newspaper ad staff to feature the items you have marked and use the others to fill in.

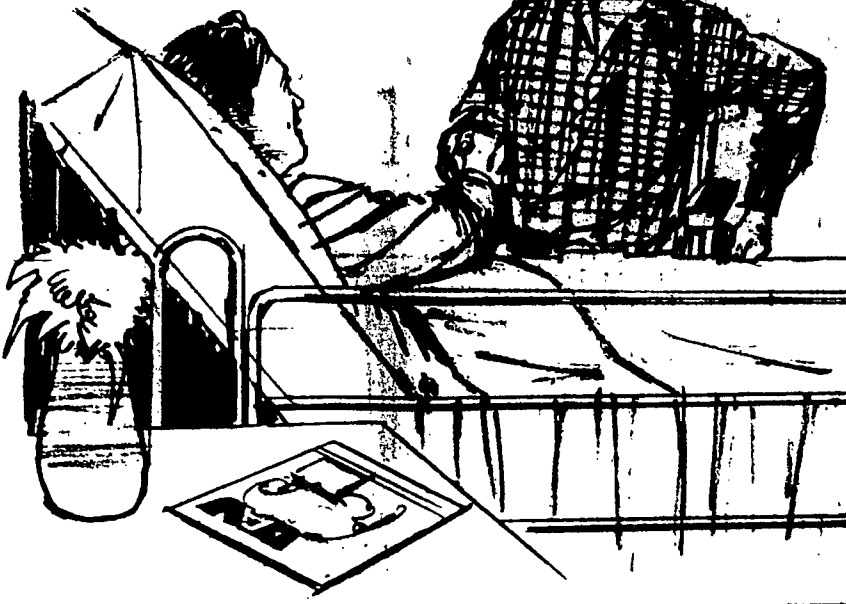

Then by having the exact number of items all you have to do is make a list and designate the appropriate number of items for the various parts of the ad.

Your newspaper ad staff is quite skilled and ready to help. The main thing is to get them clear, complete copy with plenty of lead time for them to work it up properly.

They will do everything possible to make your job easier, for their interest, like yours, is in seeing that your ads sell goods.

DAV urges VA hospital visits on Veterans Day

By STEVE ORDERS
Disabled American Veterans' 1982 Outstanding Disabled Veteran of the Year

Nov. 11 is a special day — Veterans Day, a day set aside to honor the men and women who have helped to protect the freedoms we all enjoy.

After Vietnam War wounds put me in a wheelchair, I spent a lot of time in Veterans Administration hospitals, but I was lucky because I always had the support of my family and friends.

Today there are nearly 90,000 men and women in our VA hospitals, many without close family or friends. Some will be there for a long time. These veterans need to know that they're not forgotten, that people still care.

That's why, in honor of Veterans Day, I ask you to visit a veteran at your nearest VA hospital on Nov. 11. Just drop by, say hello, make a friend. It will make you — and a veteran — feel better.

Perhaps the stories of a couple of veterans I met on a recent visit to a VA hospital will help explain why I, as a representative of the Disabled American Veterans, am asking you to do something more than fly an American flag on Nov. 11 this year.

Take Ed, who was a strapping young man, loved by everyone, when he went overseas in 1919. Then, somewhere in the Argonne forest, a German shell tore an arm off his body.

Today, Ed's ticker is getting ready to quit. At 85, he's outlived all of his closest relatives and friends. Ed tried to smile as he told me, "The younger people, they just don't have time." Somehow it just escaped Ed that I was two generations behind him. Ed's alone, he's old, and he's dying.

Then there's Tony who, I'd say, has many years ahead of him. But his old high school buddies — now in their middle 30's — have long since forgotten about him.

Sometimes Tony forgets things too, due to the North Vietnamese shrapnel lodged deep inside his skull since that day, that year, Tony seems unable to place. "Maybe my family thinks I can't remember them, don't notice when they don't come here so much anymore," Tony told me.

Not every patient in our VA hospitals has a story as gut-wrenching as these. Some stories are happier, some even sadder. Only a few patients have gone to the VA, like Ed, to die. And, certainly, not all will spend their lives walking up and down the VA's wards like Tony. But the theme of loneliness...of being forgotten...is common enough in the lives of the veterans in our VA hospitals, common enough that we should all take notice.

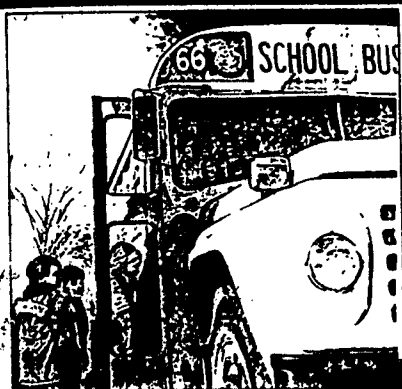

I don't need to explain why none of us should allow Ed and Tony and others like them to become forgotten people. All of us owe a tremendous debt to the men and women who have fought America's wars, and all of us know that.

It's a great idea to show you remember the sacrifices these veterans made by hanging a flag in front of your home on Nov. 11. And I'd really appreciate your attendance at a parade or other Veterans Day observance in your community.

But let's do a little more than that this year. In honor of Veterans Day, the Disabled American Veterans urges you to drop in at the VA hospital nearest you to visit just one or two veterans. They need to be remembered.

The nearest VA medical facilities are the VA Hospital on US-90, Gulfport, and the Biloxi VA Hospital, Pat Harrison Avenue and Pass Road.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sports fan angry with football strike

Nov. 4, 1982

Dear Editor:

Though I am not a professional journalist and may be as insignificant as a grain of sand in one of the world's great deserts, I have feelings that I am reasonably certain are shared by millions of your constituents throughout this great country of ours.

I would like, through you, to wake these feelings in as many people as possible. So, I beg you to please consider using my letter.

In the summer of 1981, we, John Q. Fan, were deprived of almost half of the season of "America's Favorite Pastime" when the Pro Baseball Players Association went on strike.

In 1983, the contract between the Pro Basketball Players Association and owners will be renegotiated.

Will we remain passive in the face of the threat of yet another strike? How much more of this can we take, or better still, how much more will we let them take from us, the much deserving fan?

I'm talking about the people who sweat through 40 or more hours of work per week for some 50 weeks for only a small percentage of what these people, the owners and players alike, make for less than half the time and effort.

I'm talking about thousands of unemployed that scrape and sacrifice much needed things to flock to the stadiums for a couple of hours to unwind from the strain of everyday problems.

Whether these people sacrifice time with their families or make it a family outing, whether they sacrifice a few dollars from their budgets or make it a part of their budgets, these people are the ones who always make the sacrifices.

It is time for us, the silent majority — that fill stadiums all over the country with noise of all sorts in support of our favorite teams, to make one more sacrifice.

We should boycott the stadiums for game three, when and if there is one. No, I am not a mad man; just an angry person who has realized in my short lifetime the effect of strikes and boycotts and the fact that they are a big part of the "American Way" of life.

Let's take notes from the professionals and how our solidarity by staging an "en masse" boycott of game three.

If we stick together, then fans can form the largest and most influential union in existence.

After all, it's we who pay the players' salaries and make the owners' profits! We didn't act to stop this strike, but we may be able to avert the possibility of future strikes, by forcing good faith bargaining in advance of the expiration of existing contracts.

Yours truly,

Bay PD employee feels residents are lucky to have mayor who can be reached

October 30, 1982

Dear Sir:

I am writing in regards to the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

I have been an employee at this department for over a year now and though it may not be worth much, I would like to voice my opinion and what I have observed as an employee.

I do not think people in this small community realize how lucky they really are. Many nights, not to mention holidays, I have had Mayor Bennett call the concerning sewerage problems so that I could dispatch a city worker and have it taken care of.

Granted, I may not always reach a worker immediately, but that is not often. I wonder if people realize the rareness of being able to phone Mayor Bennett at home during the evening? I know for a fact, of many who have gone to his home after 10 p.m. simply to complain of their problems.

As for Chief Williams, he is the most unprejudiced man I know. He is also the fairest. He has given more than one person chance after chance to prove themselves, whether it be paying a traffic ticket or in doing their job.

He does not require perfection, only the best of your ability. He is not a man who demands respect, he earns it. I have heard him repeatedly state to his officers that a smile and a wave never hurt anyone and that kindness and respect were always to be shown to the people in this city because, after all, that is who they were working for to begin with. I have never seen this man refuse anyone his time or service.

Last but not least, there is Mrs. Brenda Anderson, administrative officer. Many times this lady has clocked in at 9 a.m. and 11 p.m. at night she is still going strong. She is a very dedicated lady and her goal is to help achieve and maintain a Police Department this city can be proud of.

There are many things I could comment on and they are all good. Then again, they would never receive the coverage as a bad mouthing does.

I can only say that I, as a citizen of Bay St. Louis am very proud to have been an employee of this department. These people not only became my employers, but now remain, my friends.

Sincerely,

Wants Mississippi's mineral rights change

October 29, 1982

Letter to the Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis, Ms

Dear Sir,

For a number of years—probably one hundred—we have permitted a situation to develop within our state that is very unfair to the land owners!

Large land holders, such as lumber companies, oil companies, Federal Land Bank and others, have sold their land holdings, some of which had been repossessed by them, to individuals but retained part or all of the mineral rights.

Some of these mineral rights have been held by these large corporations for fifty years or longer at absolutely no expense to them.

From a selfish standpoint it is logical that these corporations would want to retain the mineral rights since they are not required to pay any taxes whatsoever on such holdings.

On the other hand, the person who owns the surface land has to pay taxes and, in some cases, the mineral rights are worth more than the surface rights. Naturally, dual ownership like this discourages exploration.

For several years the efforts of some legislators to correct this inequity have been blocked because of legal opinions that stated you could not take property without "due process of law."

Today there is "a light at the end of the tunnel." The legislature of the State of Indiana passed a law that stated that the mineral rights would revert to the present landowner after a certain number of years, provided no drilling operation was taking place on that property.

The Indiana law has been declared legal and constitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

I have written to all the Mississippi Legislators regarding this matter. Practically all of them from whom I have heard agree that this is a wrong that should be corrected. They state, however, that if this action is to be successful, the general public must become aroused and show they have an interest and they must express that interest to their local legislators.

No one needs to own these mineral rights now more than the farmer or land owner who is having such a difficult time trying to make a living for his family.

This letter is an appeal to you, the citizens of the State of Mississippi, to contact your legislators and ask them to support the legislation on this matter that will be introduced during the 1983 session of the Legislature.

Sincerely yours,
Fayette C. Williams, D.D.S.

Corinth, MS 38834

US liberty linked to defense

Editor's Note: The following article entitled 'A Veterans' Day Reflection' by David Tucker is furnished to The Sea Coast Echo by Public Research, Syndicated, Clairmont, Calif., who recently completed two years as Harper Instructor at the University of Chicago.

Theme: Our freedom is bound up with Europe's — which is why so many Americans have died defending European liberty.

By DAVID TUCKER

Sixty-four years ago, on Nov. 11, 1918, the First World War came to an end. We now honor on this day the veterans of all our foreign wars.

It is appropriate that we should do so, for American participation in WW I signalled our movement to center stage in the world's affairs.

But since this day marks the end of a European war, it is equally appropriate to recall the reasons why we fought in Europe and why we keep troops there today.

For most of the 19th Century the United States was little involved with the affairs of Europe.

Separated from that continent by a vast ocean and protected by the navy of our largest trading partner, Great Britain, we farmed, mined, manufactured, traded, and fought a devastating Civil War largely free from foreign interference.

By the early 20th Century the U.S. had become one of the great powers of the world. When the First World War began, we resisted involvement, but we could no longer remain aloof from European affairs.

Having fought the British in our own country, 140 years earlier, we returned to Europe to fight beside them and their allies.

There was no choice. Indeed, we had never been truly isolated from the Old World. European capital had built our factories and railroads, as our produce had fed and clothed Europeans.

Moreover, since the time of Napoleon, the American statesmen had recognized that any nation that dominated Europe would be able to exert unbearable economic and military pressure on the United States.

During the 19th Century, America did not have the power to influence European affairs. When our nation acquired such power, our interests demanded that we intervene.

The second World War presented the same challenge. At first we refused to take

Pirates whomp Bearcats in final seven minutes

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

In a spectacular and unbelievable comeback in the last seven minutes of the rival game against the Long Beach High School Bearcats Friday night, the Pass Christian High School Pirates challenged up touchdowns and conversions to win the contest, 21-22.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter in the freezing cold Pass homecoming contest at Francis S. McDonald Stadium, it looked like Long Jenkins surprises the Bearcats and shoots a quick pass across the middle to seldom used Tight End Irvin Hall for the game winning points and sets the game score of 21-22.

To add to insult, Fields intercepts a Bearcat pass in mid-field.

Pirate fans go wild and start running on to the field. The field is cleared, the game again begins and time runs out for Long Beach.

EARLIER ACTION

Long Beach scored late in the first quarter and made the PAT setting the first period score of 7-0.

The Bearcats again scored with 50 seconds left in the second quarter and the good extra point set the halftime score of 13-0.

Long Beach again scored midway into the third quarter and were successful in the extra point effort to up the score to 21-0.

Lumpkin Saturday morning said he has never been involved in a game like the one Friday.

He noted defensive squad efforts aiding by seldom utilized tactics caused Long Beach to fumble and throw interceptions.

"I didn't know what would happen," Lumpkin stated about the final minutes of the game.

"The whole key to the game was stopping Long Beach in a fourth and two situation," he said.

The head coach also praised performances by Jenkins, Fields, Dedaux and Hall. Lumpkin classifies those team members as excellent players.

Game statistics show Long Beach with 10 first downs compared to the Pass' six. The Bearcats gained 149 rushing yards to the Pirates' 92.

Long Beach earned 135 passing yards and Jenkins gained 78.

In passing, the Bearcats threw 13 times, completed five and threw two interceptions.

Jenkins hurried the ball 15 times, completed seven and threw away three.

The Bearcats punted three times averaging 33 yards.

Pass Christian booted the ball five times averaging 28 yards.

And the killers...

The Bearcats fumbled seven times and lost it four times.

Pass Christian fumbled four times, but only lost the ball twice.

Long Beach was penalized six times for 60 yards.

The Pirates were only penalized twice for 20 yards.

LET'S MOVE—Preparing to hand off to Fullback Al McKay, No. 20, Friday night is Pass Christian High School Quarterback Jamie Jenkins, No. 11, as Center Leonard Porter, No. 50, minutes into the fourth quarter and gained enough points to beat the Bearcats 21-22 with about two minutes to spare. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Beach would surely win with a 21-22 lead.

Last year, the Pirates defeated Long Beach 21-20 in that school's homecoming game.

Pass Head Coach Bob Lumpkin expected the Bearcats would be out for blood Friday night and they were—to a point.

That point occurred about four minutes into the final quarter of the game while the overconfident Bearcats began playing second-string team members.

Long Beach's first-string punter was benched due to a pulled groin muscle, Lumpkin said.

The Bearcat second-string punter, deep in their own territory, kicked the ball almost straight up in the air, giving the Pirates good field position on the Long Beach 39-yard-line.

Pass Christian saw their chance and Quarterback Jamie Jenkins guided the Pirates to the Bearcat 15 in two plays.

Long Beach personal foul penalty bring Pass Christian within two-feet of the goal line.

Jenkins then hands off to Fields who again scampers around the left side for another six.

In need of two points, Jenkins rifles a quick short pass over the middle of the line to Flanker Richard Dedaux for the conversion, which ups the score to 14-21.

In the first down just after the kickoff return, Long Beach again fumbles away the pigskin on their own 22 and are pushed back to the 13 by an unsportsmanlike conduct call.

Pass Christian is in a third and seven situation on the Long Beach 10.

Jenkins rifles a pass to Split End Ramone Henderson in the end zone for another six.

The score is now 20-21. An extra point kick would tie up the game and could lead to a dangerous sudden death playoff, so the cool-headed Pirates go for two.

Injury plagued Tiger squad drops closer

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay High School varsity football team, bruised and injured from a full season of hard hits, dropped their final game of the season to St. John 14-0 Thursday night in Gulfport.

The non conference loss gives the Tigers a 6-3 season record and a 6-1 conference record.

Although the Tigers are tied with both Pearl River Central and Stone County for the Deep South Conference championship, a coin toss Saturday rolled in favor of Stone County, and that team will represent the Deep South Conference in sub-District Eight Tournament play next Friday in Wiggins against Poplarville.

Prior to the coin toss, Bay High Head Coach Snuffy Smith noted, "We may have to throw in the towel even if we are picked."

Tiger injuries to support

Smith's comment could not have been more evident than at the Tiger-St. John contest.

Two starting Tigers already sidelined by injuries this year were joined Thursday by defensive back and right tackle Mark Davis and center Randy Bounds.

Davis received a knee injury while blocking a field goal attempt early in the ball game. Bounds had to be taken out in the final period due to an ankle injury.

Changes in both the Tiger offense and defense to compensate for the loss of running back Michael Lewis and right guard Tim Froux earlier this year, plus additional changes Thursday, contributed to the Tiger's demise by St. John, Smith said.

"When you start changing things around and substituting positions you lose consistency and timing," he said.

Although Smith gave St.

John credit for being tough opponents, the injuries also contributed the Tigers having one of their poorest yard gaining games of the season.

Bay High managed only 81 yards in total offense and retained possession of the ball only rarely throughout the game.

The Eagles first score followed the second fumble of a total of six Tiger fumbles throughout the ball game. Three plays after the Tigers lost the ball on their own 16 yard line, St. John's Kevin Williams carried from four yards out for the only score in the first half.

The final score followed a 45 yard drive by St. John late in the fourth period. Rich Campbell, who rushed for 106 yards in the game, plunged over the goal from four yards out.

St. John place kicker Jacques Guillot was successful on both PAT's to give St. John their 14 points.

Dogs lick Rocks, 13-0

By RANDY PONDER

It's over. The 1982 St. Stanislaus football season is history. The book is closed on a 1-win, 9-loss campaign. Vancleave completed the final chapter Friday night, blanking the Rock-A-Chaws 13-0 in Bay St. Louis.

Bulldog fullback Richard Warren fought his way into the endzone on a third down and two situation from the Rock five to put his team ahead early in the second quarter. The short run capped a 65 yard drive. Roy Dunning booted the extra point.

That TD march was the direct result of a Rock-A-Chaw turnover and penalty.

Vancleave got the ball following a Rock fumble on the 26 but was unable to move and was prepared to punt the ball from deep in their own territory.

The Rock-A-Chaws were charged with roughing the punter and the Bulldogs retained possession of the ball and eventually pushed across their first points of the game.

An interception by Kevin Scardino in the endzone prevented the Bulldogs from possibly padding their lead just before halftime. Vancleave had moved to the Rock-A-Chaw nine before the big defensive play by Scardino.

Vancleave's final score came late in the game following another St. Stanislaus fumble.

Pat Jackson recovered the football and the Bulldogs drove 69 yards using 18 plays to put the game on ice.

John Warren zig-zagged around a number of Rock defenders on his 19 yard trip to the endzone. The PAT was blocked by John Killeen.

St. Stanislaus had several chances to score in the game but managed to stop themselves each time.

On their first possession, the Rocks marched to; the Vancleave 26 where a fumble ended the drive.

Early in the final frame, St. Stanislaus again reached the Vancleave end of the field, moving to the 31 before another fumble thwarted that threat.

The Bulldogs had 15 first downs in the game, the Rocks had 7. Vancleave had 188 yards rushing and 69 passing. St. Stanislaus picked up 27 and 73 respectively. Each team had three turnovers. The visitors were guilty of eight penalties which cost them 80 yards. The Rock-A-Chaws were flagged six times for 60 yards.

Vancleave finishes the year at 3-7. St. Stanislaus ends the disappointing season at 1-9.

TOUCHDOWN STRETCH—Vancleave fullback Richard Warren puts his team on the score board with his determined, second effort tally at the start of the second stanza. Warren scored from five yards out, dragging several Rock-A-Chaw defenders with him. John Warren added a fourth quarter TD

as the Bulldogs whipped St. Stanislaus, 13-0, Friday night in Bay St. Louis. It was the last game of the season for both clubs. Vancleave finished at 3-7 and the Rocks dropped to 1-9. (Echo photo by Randy Ponder)

Coast Rescue Mission facility expanding

The Gulf Coast Rescue Mission has announced that it is purchasing a three-acre plot of ground adjacent to the present mission property on Campbell Road in Biloxi in order to expand its ministry to include long-term care for abused or neglected children and poor elderly.

The mission is presently collecting funds to raise the $27,000 necessary to purchase the land and begin building the children's home.

The mission has assisted poor and needy transient and local families in the Gulf Coast area for 14 years with lodging, food, clothing, furniture, rent, utility and drug bills.

As of August 31, the mission has granted $12,500 in assistance to Gulf Coast residents, a 50 percent increase over last year.

The mission has seen the great need for an expanded ministry in the area of abused and neglected children for a number of years, said John T. Christy, superintendent.

There is particularly a pressing lack of facilities for the 12 to 17-year-old child who is difficult to handle, he added.

The mission has already started to receive donations to the land purchase fund.

Persons desiring to send gifts to the mission may do so by mailing them to: The Gulf Coast Rescue Mission, 119 Campbell Rd., P. O. Box 4531, Biloxi, MS 39631.

All donations are fully tax-deductible.

County Agent's Notes

COST CUTTING

Good farmers are always looking for ways to cut costs and become more efficient. That's even more evident this year as farmers search for ways to make up for low crop prices.

Farmers who have both row crops and cattle can save by letting cattle eat crop residues left in the field after harvest. This is a good arrangement for some cattlemen because cattle can consume a lot of roughage. Even where cattle have plenty of lush winter grazing, they seem to crave some rough fiber material.

Most crop residues available for cattle are usually high in fiber, but low in protein and energy. That means the cattle are usually high in fiber, but low in protein and energy. That means the cattle may need supplement with minerals and other higher quality feed. The quality of the residue as feed drops fairly rapidly as it stays in the field.

Many pastures also contain some "frosted" grass which the cattle can use as feed. Cattle always eat a lot of frosted grass if it is available in late fall or early winter.

Farmers should use special caution with feeding certain types of frosted materials such as sorghum. Frost ruptures the plant cells which releases an acid that may cause cyanide poisoning in cattle. The poisoning potential varies among forages. Grain sorghum has the most potential followed by johnsongrass, sorghum-sudan and sudangrass.

The affected plants can be fed safely if fermented as silage or cured as hay. They also are safe for cattle to graze after the plants are dry.

For more information on managing crops to reduce costs and increase efficiency, call or drop by the county Extension Office.

STOPPING INSECTS

The peak insect season is history for many of our farmers, but steps should be taken now to get a head start on insect problems that may be even bigger headaches in 1983 crops.

A good way farmers can get the jump on insects is by attending the Mississippi Insect Control Conference. The conference is scheduled for Tuesday through Thursday, Nov. 9-11 at the W. M. Post Cooperative Extension Center on the Mississippi State University campus. Last year about 400 farmers and officials attended the meeting.

The conference will give the latest information on a wide range of insect control topics that are important to Hancock County Farmers. Topics will range from insect control in cotton, soybeans and wheat to how integrated pest management works to control a variety of pest related problems in crops.

The meeting is sponsored by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service and the Mississippi Entomological Association. I encourage anyone who has an interest in insect control to attend this meeting.

LESS TILLAGE

One of the big costs in farming is getting land prepared to plant crops. Many farmers in our area as well as across the state have a tendency to overdo it when it comes to land preparation.

Over-cultivating row crops costs in more fuel costs and soil losses. We prepare land in the fall, and then it rains in the winter and we have to do it all over again in the spring.

According to a recent government study, U.S. Farmers could save the equivalent of nearly four months of Arab oil imports if they used less cultivation and other proven fuel-saving techniques.

Increasing soil loss to erosion is also a big factor in cultivation. As the erosion problem becomes more severe, farmers may be forced to practice minimum tillage to save soils.

One thing holding farmers back is the equipment changes necessary to make the shift to conservation tillage. The nature of many of our soils dictates heavy equipment to prepare the land in one operation.

Many farmers can't afford a new $2,000 to $10,000 planter needed for conservation tillage. Some of the ones who can are gradually changing to the equipment for the soil and fuel savings.

The answer for the limited resource farmer who can't afford to buy may be leasing the equipment or sharing the cost with other farmers. One major equipment company, John Deere, is encouraging a leasing arrangement with some of its heavy equipment.

GARDENING NOT OVER
We are into the slow time of the gardening year when we can look back and review the year's successes and failures.

As it turned out, 1982 was generally a good year for early summer gardens, although rains that were good for the early summer crops produced weed and disease problems in late summer vegetables.

The 1983 gardening season is just around the corner, but there are still some things you can do this year for greater gardening success next year.

An important job is to have a soil test so you can apply lime now if it is needed. You also may want to row up part of the garden for early planting of English peas and Irish potatoes.

Turn the garden site with a turning plow, if possible, to reduce problems with southern stem blight. Also, have the soil tested for nematodes if you suspect them. Constant problems with squash, corn and cucumbers plus knots on the roots are signs of nematodes.

Since 1982 was a bad year for insects and diseases, clean up the garden by removing and disposing of all dead plants. It is not too early to get the cold frame ready. If you need plans to build one, check by the County Extension Office.

Remind your non-gardening friends about all the vegetables you enjoyed so they can share in the benefits of gardening next year.

FALL PRUNING HANDBOOK
Fall is the worst time of the year to prune ornamental trees and shrubs. Plants pruned in the fall will put on new growth that doesn't have time to mature and harden before freezing weather. To prevent winterkill, prune ornamentals in late winter or early spring.

Hawk Juniors post winning 5-3-1 season

Hancock North Central's Ninth Grade Hawks closed out a 5-3-1 winning season Thursday with a 6-0 win over Pearl River Central's Junior Blue Devils in Carriere.

Hawk coaches Joe Shaw and Tim Favre said the 1982 Junior Hawks brought home the first winning season for HNC Ninth Graders in a long time.

Quarterback Brett Favre completed a 20-yard pass to halfback Duke Cuevas on the first play of the fourth quarter for the game's only touchdown.

Favre's subsequent aerial attempt at an extra two points was unsuccessful.

"Thursday's game was a real defensive struggle—our entire defensive unit played another great game, holding the Blue Devils to a minus 56 yards rushing," Shaw explained.

Two starters returning to Wildcat squad

Consistency will be the key to Pearl River College's basketball success here in 1982-83.

Billy Holmes, the Wildcat's head coach, said his newest edition of 'Cats have a lot of potential, but they'll have to play with intensity and consistency to have a chance in the South Division of the JuCo league.

"We really do not have but two starters returning," Holmes said. Beyond returning starters Glenn Boyd, a 6-1 point guard, and Matthew Bacon, a 6-5 center, both from Louisiana, Holmes has three lettermen back, but admits new people probably will be joining Boyd and Bacon in the starting lineup.

Pre-season picks in the South are Utica and Gulf Coast. These two powerhouses went tooth and nail for the crown last year. Gulf Coast won the South regular-season title with a 13-1 record but lost to Utica 68-67 in the South playoff.

TOUCHDOWN RECEPTION—Hancock North Central's fleet-footed junior halfback Lydell Curry (32) takes in a quarterback Scott Favre touchdown pass near the Pearl River Central goal line in Friday night football action in Hawk Stadium. Curry's second quarter score was the first for the Hawks who sustained a season-closet defeat, 35-12. The Blue Devils scored three times in the first quarter and four times in the first half.

A strong second half offensive by the Hawks couldn't surmount that advantage. The Blue Devils lost the Deep South Conference Championship Saturday in a coin toss to break a three-way tie between the Blue Devils, Bay High and Stone County. Stone moves on to the playoffs. ## Electric blankets afford 17 percent energy reduction

One obvious way Mississippians can save energy during the winter months is to turn down their home thermostats while sleeping.

Frances Portenberry, a housing specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said this alternative can be accomplished without sacrificing comfort by using electric blankets.

Studies conducted in typical homes in Illinois showed that by lowering the thermostat to 62°F each night and using electric blankets to maintain comfort while sleeping, the average household enjoyed energy reductions of 16.9 percent.

Prices for electric blankets run from about $25 for a basic, twin size to more than $100 for the deluxe king size models. If a reduction in your heating bills of 16.9 percent would cover the cost of the blanket you might want to consider buying one.

Keep in mind that once you buy the blanket, it is yours and it will continue to provide savings for several years while energy rates are likely to increase. The blanket does not necessarily have to pay for itself the first year.

If you decide to buy a blanket, consider these points: Read the label carefully and be sure to look for the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) Seal which assures you that samples of the blanket have been tested and approved.

Blanket quality generally matches cost, polyester blankets cost more than acrylic. The length of the warranty on the blanket also usually reflects the price.

If you are a light sleeper you will want a blanket with solid state controls. These controls are silent, others make a little click when the thermostat turns the blanket on and off.

If there is more than one person in the bed you will probably want dual controls. These are available in all sizes but twin size.

Blankets fitted at the foot make bedmaking easier. Fitted blankets come in all sizes.

The last decision you may have to make is whether you want a blanket that has little hangers for the controls to be hung on the bedframe or sideboard, or if you'd feel better sleeping with the controls in your grasp.

School board to continue taking 40% cost of photos

By BRENT MACEY

Hancock County School Board Attorney Joseph Gex told board members Saturday that the school district can legally charge and keep 40 percent of the cost students pay annually for school photographs.

After hearing the report by Gex, the board decided to continue the district's practice of taking a 40 percent cut.

Board Member Louie Ladner was the only board member who opposed the practice.

All other members, plus the principals of four schools in the district, agreed that the district should continue keeping 40 percent of the cost.

Three school principals claimed the money is either used to defray the cost of each school's annual yearbook or is used to reduce debts owed on previous school annuals.

Gulfview Elementary School Principal William Haddock, in a letter addressed to the board, stated the money derived from the photograph sales at his school will be turned over to the Gulfview Parent Teachers Club to purchase air conditioning units for the school.

School Superintendent Terrell Randolph was also in favor of the district keeping the 40 percent.

He said he would stop the publication of student annuals if the money derived from the photographs could not be used to pay the cost of the yearbook publication.

"I'm not going to allow students to go into the red on their annuals," he said.

He stated he hoped the money could be used to reduce the cost of school yearbooks so every student could afford to purchase one.

Also Saturday, Gex told the board it can legally spend some $250,000 derived from a two mill tax assessed this year if it passes a resolution outlining what the money will be used for.

The resolution must be approved by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and published in a local newspaper.

The district had planned to spend the money on construction of numerous classrooms throughout the district.

But that plan went awry when the district learned that the Educational Finance Commission could not lend any financial support to the district for classroom construction.

Gex stated the EFC may have money for the classroom construction program by next year.

He noted interest rates have been declining, and he said the EFC may be able to float bonds to acquire the money.

The EFC in the past was unable to support any construction because high interest rates prevented the organization from selling bonds on the market.

Also at the meeting, the board agreed not to allow soft drink machines to be installed in the school district.

A letter written by Assistant Superintendent James Pair stated the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges prohibits the machines from being installed in schools.

Installation of the machines would endanger that organization's accreditation of elementary and middle schools.

In other "business, the board:

—Approved the sale of some 889 cords of pulp wood on a 16th Land Section at $10.50 per cord;

—Adopted a new policy concerning the treatment of head lice. If one or more students contracts head lice, all parents whose students attend the school will be contacted. Students who have head lice will be required to stay home and receive treatment. An inspection by the school nurse will be required before any student will be readmitted. No clearance by the State Health Department will be required.

Air Force speaker Veterans Day

By ELLIS CUEVAS

1st. Col. Garry F. Forrest, U.S. Air Force, will give the Veterans Day address Thursday at special services scheduled in Bay St. Louis.

Col. Forrest, presently chief of the Programs Division Headquarters Keesler Technical Training Center, Biloxi, is a 1962 graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy. The 20 year veteran's service included 18 months in Vietnam.

The Hancock County Veterans Day ceremonies will pay a special tribute to Vietnam veterans.

A parade sponsored by the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 will form at 9:30 a.m., Carroll Avenue at Bay Junior High, according to John Wilkerson, parade chairman.

Public radio broadcasts to emanate from Biloxi

Mississippi ETV has received a $1 million grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce for the activation of the eight-station statewide public radio network in Mississippi.

The first station in the network is expected to be operational within 18 months, according to F. Lee Morris, executive director of the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television, which will establish and operate the network.

The activation of the first station is dependent on factory deliveries of equipment and the installation of the equipment, Morris said.

"Public radio, like public TV," said Morris, "will add a dimension of broadcasting service that has been unavailable to the majority of Mississippians."

"We plan to offer good music, special programs for the blind, public affairs broadcasts, specials on government, programs of interest to minority groups and a variety of cultural programs," he added.

"We've been at the forefront of educational television for more than a decade, and how we hope to operate a very strong public radio network, too," Mossi said.

Mississippi's public radio network is expected to be on the air seven days a week, 19 hours a day, or 133 hours a week.

Some of the programming will be locally produced, but the bulk of the day's programming will come from National Public Radio, a network that provides approximately 115 hours of programming a week to its 273 member public radio stations.

This programming includes two of NPR's most popular offerings, the award-winning "All Things Considered" and "Morning Edition."

Another programming feature is a special service for the blind including readings from major newspapers and magazines. A special adaptor is required for this service so that regular programming

Washington presentation heard by Coast DAR

The Gulf Coast Chapter Mississippi Society Daughters of the American Revolution held their regular monthly luncheon meeting on November 3 at the Bonanza Steakhouse in Gulfport.

Reports were given by committee chairmen.

Mrs. June Jones, Mrs. Nell Eubanks and Mrs. Doris Virden were elected to the nominating committee. A new slate of officers for the next three years will be voted on at the December meeting, with installation in March.

Mrs. Clyde Woodfield presented a program "A True Patriot" - George Washington on the 250th year after his birth. Mrs. Woodfield's presentation was of his inheritance of Mount Vernon from his brother Lawrence; his frailty as a young man; his life as farmer, surveyor and as Adjutant of Virginia to help draft the Constitution.

She also spoke of Washington's respect for the office of the Presidency, and of the tribute paid by John Marshall on the occasion of George Washington's death when he said "....first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, December 1, at noon, Bonanza. Election of officers and the New Hope Baptist Church Bell Choir are on the agenda.

PBS' Nature series continues Sunday

Granite islands set in a rolling ocean of grassland — they are called "kopjes," and they form an intriguing stage on and around which a massive outcrops of Africa's ancient bedrock dwarfed by the immense surrounding plains of Tanzania's Serengeti played out year by year. Remote and mysterious.

clusters of these kopjes provide shelter, shade and a source of water for an incredible array of plant and animal life, and have been doing so for centuries.

How these rocks interact with the wildlife and vegetation which surround them is examined on 'Nature' Sunday, Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. over the Public Broadcasting Service in the film, "Kopje: A Rock for All Seasons."

PBS is carried on Mississippi Educational Television channel 19, Biloxi and Hancock Cable, channel 13.

A production of WNET, New York, the 13-part Nature series is presented over PBS with funding from public television stations.

Dr. Donald Johanson, the world-famous paleoanthropologist, is the on-camera host for the series.

Producer Barry Paine and cinematographers Hugh Maynard and Stephen Bolwell spent many months on the Serengeti plain documenting the life cycles of the animals and vegetation surrounding the kopjes.

Some creatures, they discovered, are seasonal and rather casual users of the kopjes; others find a permanent home there. Indeed, there are plants and animals that find the very existence of the rocks a key to survival in such isolation.

The film provides answers to the secrets of these mysterious stones. It shows how they have been formed and why they have become "rocks for all seasons."

The quick seasonal changes in the Serengeti dramatically alter the kopje landscape — each change supporting a unique community of life. When water is plentiful and grass is green, gazelles, lions, giraffes, cheetahs and a wealth of bird life haunt the kopje.

As the land turns brown under the sun, and the wildebeest pass by on their annual migration to the north, the kopjes are left to their permanent residents.

These include the curious rock hyraxes which become a source of food for one of Africa's largest eagles, and the leaping agama lizard, which is captured in dramatic slow-motion film footage. These hard and tenacious tenants can survive even when the kopjes' pools of water dry up.

As the rains return, viewers will see the sun-baked rocks explode with life. The frogs and fairy shrimp hatch and thrive. A profusion of flowers blossoms in celebration of this rocky island refuge, the kopje. "Kopje: A Rock for All Seasons" was produced by Barry Paine. The film cameramen are Hugh Maynard and Stephen Bolwell. The sound is by Keith Rodgers and Peter Copeland.

The film was edited by Peter Heeley. The film was produced with the cooperation of the Serengeti Research Institute and the Tanzanian National Parks.

Nature is produced by David Heeley for WNET. The executive producer is George Page.

Weather

Farmers can expect normal rainfall but cooler temperatures over most of the state in November, according to the National Weather Service.

Cooler-than-normal temperatures are a good possibility for the northern two-thirds of the state, according to the weather service report released by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Usual amounts of rainfall ranging from near 3.5 inches on the Gulf Coast to about 5 inches in north Mississippi are expected in November, weather experts say.

Wet fields are expected in the early part of the month, but dry periods in November normally are long enough to allow harvesting. Still, farmers are advised to complete harvesting as early as possible.

Freezing temperatures are more likely toward the end of the month. Lows in the lower 30s in northern counties and in the upper 40s near the coast are likely in late November.

Poultrymen in north Mississippi are cautioned to plan for sharp drops in temperatures. The outlook for wheat and winter pastures planted in early November is good, the weather experts say.

ETV Brief

GRAMMY WINNER

"Roger Miller: A Soundstage Special" will be telecast at 7 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 13, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Recorded before a live audience, the concert captured the humor and vitality that is the driving force behind Miller and the music he performs.

Miller was at the height of his career when the Rolling Stones, the Beatles and the Who imported him after hit into the United States. Yet, Miller still reigned on the charts at top 40 stations nationwide, and, in 1965, he received six Grammy Awards and was named Jukebox Artist of the Year, becoming the only artist to be so honored.

Songs like "King of the Road," "Dang Me," "Chug-a-Lug" and "England Swings" have earned Miller five other Grammys, plus 17 Grammy nominations throughout his career.

WOODWRIGHT—Roy Underhill, host of The Woodwright's Shop returns this fall in 13 new programs that continue to explore the craftsmanship and wit of traditional 19th-century woodworking, 5:30 p.m., Saturdays, on ETV.

Sister Deborah LaFontaine takes first vows as RJM

Sister Debbie (Deborah Ann LaFontaine), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin LaFontaine of the Catholic Church of Delisle Parish, recently made first commitment as a sister of the Religious of Jesus and Mary in Hyattsville, Md.

RJM Sisters from New York, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Mississippi, and Maryland were present at the Eucharist celebration.

Rev. Paul Brant, S.J. of Chicago was main celebrant. Concelebrants were Rev. Terence Attridge, N.Y.; Rev. John McSpirt, ST, Delisle; Rev. Denis Fitzgerald, ST, Maryland; and Rev. Gaston Lessard, SM, Maryland.

Family members from Mississippi attended the ceremony. A special prayer was offered for David Niolet, grandfather, and Amanda LaFontaine, niece, who were unable to attend, and for Carl LaFontaine, deceased brother of Sister Debbie.

Readers for the Eucharist celebration were Cheryl Nichols RJM, Michael Siefert SM, Mary Coyne RJM, and Mrs. Margaret Scurfield.

Sister Vivian Patenaude, RJM provincial of the American Province received Sister Debbie's promises.

Margaret Perron, RJM, presented the constitutions and Sister Rosemary Mangan, RJM, presented the cross which is the symbol of the religious community.

Offeratory gifts were presented by family members Mark LaFontaine, Timothy LaFontaine, Mary Fortenberry, Paul LaFontaine and Donald Moran.

Music was provided by the community of the RJM with solos by Denise Renaud, RJM and Mary Scanton, NJM.

A reception was held following the Celebration hosted by the RJM community.

Sister Debbie returned home with her family for vacation. She will return to Chillum, Md. to complete her baccalaureate degree in nursing at the Catholic University of America.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

am come that they might have life.
and that they might have it more abundantly — John 10:10

By Shaun Murphy

"I demand my rights!" "Freedom!" "Equality for women!" "I'm oppressed!" "I'm unfulfilled!" "I'm wasting my life!" "I protest..." I demand... I want... give me.

The last couple of decades have heard one group after another voice their lack of fulfillment in life, often blaming their woes on others (sometimes rightfully so). Be that as it may, the fact remains that we hear so much about rights and yet so little about service.

There is no argument that everyone needs a sense of fulfillment. But no one should be obliged to give up fulfillment; not the government, not the church, not even the opposite sex, regardless of what end of the spectrum you may find yourself.

Fulfillment and self esteem cannot be given by grants or legislation.

Often we hear the attitude expressed in which people cry out for self-esteem and yet turn their backs on service opportunities.

Several years ago I came to a cross-road in my life in which I had to think soberly about how I would spend the time that God had given me.

And after much meditation, I saw only two roads that remained.

One road led to the inexhaustible search for striking it rich and thus finding a sort of temporary sense of fulfillment if only for this life.

The latter direction was to find fulfillment in service to others and thus finding a far deeper sense of usefulness even into eternity.

I suppose my point is this. I learned to quit asking this world to give me special treatment and respect. Instead I am finding out that if one spends his life in service to others, regardless of whether he is a minister, social worker, homemaker, grocer, insurance agent, and his aim is sincerely to serve rather than make a buck, he will have plenty of self-worth.

And that in the process somewhere down the road he will find the respect that he once demanded of others.

On one occasion Jesus performed a seemingly degrading act to most self-centered and 'better than thou' folks when he washed the filthy, smelly feet of his disciples.

After he had done this startling act he told them "Now you should wash one another's feet. I have set you an example that you should do as I have done for you."

Then he said, "Now that you know these things, you will be blessed if you do them." I am convinced that among all the other ways that God might bless us, one of the greatest blessings is that of fulfillment and satisfaction.

Finally, meditate on this thought for a while — if God is by nature one who serves, how much more should those whom he created serve one another?

The way up in God's kingdom is down. "Humble yourself in the sight of the Lord, and He will lift you up."

Mississippi Baptist Convention to meet in Jackson Nov. 8-10

Baptist from virtually every community in Mississippi are expected for the annual business, inspiration, and fellowship meeting of the Mississippi Baptist Convention.

This year, meeting at the First Baptist Church in Jackson, Nov. 8-10, the convention will discuss ministry needs within the state, adopt a missions and education budget recommended this year at $15 million, elect a president, and hear speakers who are leaders in Southern Baptist work.

Approximately 1,500 churches are affiliated with the Mississippi Baptist Convention, which is a part of the Southern Baptist Convention. These churches voluntarily send money to the convention for missions and educational causes in Mississippi and around the world.

The proposed $15 million would help finance the education of students at the Baptist schools in the state, Mississippi College and its Clarke College campus, William Carey College, and Blue Mountain College; the money would also help such causes as the Baptist Children's Village, the Christian Action Commission, and leadership education programs of the Mississippi Baptist Convention Board. Just over one third of the budget is tagged for Southern Baptist causes outside the state.

Leaders of two of those missions causes will be among the speakers during the convention. They are Keith Parks and William Tanner. Parks is president of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, based in Richmond, Va. And Tanner is president of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board in Atlanta. Together these two organizations employ nearly 7,000 missionaries in the United States and 96 foreign countries.

James Yates, pastor of First Baptist Church, Yazoo City is convention president. He is eligible this year for a second one year term. His president's address is an integral part of the convention, as is the annual sermon. This year's sermon is to be delivered by Jim Keith, pastor of First Baptist Church, Gulfport. Bible study leader for the convention will be Brian Harbour, who was pastor of Jackson's Colonial Heights Baptist Church, 1972-74. He is now pastor of First Baptist Church, Pensacola, Fla. A number of testimonies from laypersons from around the state are scheduled during the convention, as are special music presentations from church choirs.

Salvation Army, Boy and Girl Scouts join in collection drive

Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and the Salvation Army, three United Way agencies, are working together to help those in need.

The Salvation Army, founded in 1865, is an international religious and charitable organization motivated by love for God and a practical concern for the needs of humanity.

The purpose of its spiritual ministry is to preach the Gospel, provide personal counseling, and undertake the spiritual, moral and physical rehabilitation of all persons in need who come within its sphere of influence, regardless of race or creed.

To carry out its purpose, the Salvation Army has established a diversified program of religious and social welfare services designed to meet the needs of children, youth, and adults — people of all ages.

One such program is that of providing food to those who for one reason or another have run out of food.

The Salvation Army tries to provide a stop-gap program to help individuals and families make ends meet until food stamps start or employment is found.

Providing stable foods is one of the best means of helping.

"The problem we have right now in South Mississippi is that our pantries are bare," said Maj. Robert B. Kitchen, commanding officer.

"We rely on donations to keep the shelves stocked. While these donations have increased, they have not kept pace with the increase in needs," he added.

Unemployment and federal cutbacks have taken their toll. The Salvation Army a United Way agency has enlisted the help of two other member agencies—the Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council and the Pine Burr Boy Scout Council—in mounting the largest canned food drive in Mississippi.

Already under way, this drive runs from Nov. 1 through Nov. 22.

The Salvation Army units involved are Hattiesburg, Laurel, Gulfport, Biloxi and Pascagoula.

Each county served by the two councils is served by one or more of these Salvation Army units.
